Civilians think this insurgency is a civil war, which is oddly communist propaganda that helps commies by making patriots attack Americans so they can paint patriots as terrorists instead of stomping on their stranglehold on our communications. Wake up! Watch the new rules of war to catch up on how to fight them.

Link please. Ya can't come on the TD half cocked please explain these new rules of war. I've only served in the Marine Corps for 23 years. If there is a new publication please share. That's the problem. These commies have been groomed, bred and radicalized right here in the USA they feel no attachment to this country, its ideal and beliefs. They are here to tear it down under a misguided belief that they will dawn a new age of social utopia where everyone is equal. At no time any where at anytime in history has this existed or succeeded. So making the the claim that these brown and back shirt fascist are American shows where you lean. There is no more room for compromise or half ass patriots. If you want to wreck this country you are gonna get wrecked.

You may be my favorite crayon eater.

Do you think it's possible they threw Flynn in prison because he is particularly good at fighting and finding insurgencies?

Here's the easiest way for someone who can't sit for 12 hours reading overly complex books to learn this. Get to the end before you make up your mind, the beginning is inflammatory:

There are other great resources on fighting insurgencies, but you asked about this.

Creds: Dr. Sean McFate is a foreign policy expert. He is a Senior Fellow at the Atlantic Council, a Washington DC think tank, and a professor of strategy at the National Defense University and Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service. Additionally, he serves as an Advisor to Oxford University's Centre for Technology and Global Affairs.

McFate's career began as a paratrooper and officer in the U.S. Army's 82nd Airborne Division. He served under Stan McChrystal and David Petraeus, and graduated from elite training programs, such as Jungle Warfare School in Panama. He was also a Jump Master.

McFate then became a private military contractor and paramilitary. Among his many experiences, he dealt with African warlords, raised armies for U.S. interest, rode with armed groups in the Sahara, conducted strategic reconnaissance for the extractive industry, transacted arms deals in Eastern Europe, and helped prevent an impending genocide in the Rwanda region.

McFate has written The New Rules of War: How America Can Win—Against Russia, China, and Other Threats (Morrow) has been called "The Freakonomics of modern warfare." It was named a "Book of the Year" by The Economist, The Times [UK], and The Evening Standard, and is included on West Point's "Commandant's Reading List." Admiral Jim Stavridis, the former NATO Supreme Allied Commander, said: "Stunning. Sean McFate is a new Sun Tzu." Max Hastings wrote in The Sunday Times: "[This] iconoclastic book is being hailed by radicals as a wake-up call to governments and armed forces everywhere." It has been translated into six languages and the British edition is titled Goliath: Why the West Isn't Winning. And What We Must Do About It (Penguin). McFate also authored The Modern Mercenary: Private Armies and What They Mean for World Order (Oxford Univ Press). The Economist called it a "fascinating and disturbing book."

McFate is a consultant to the U.S. military, U.S. intelligence community, United Nations, and Hollywood. He has written for the New York Times, Washington Post, The Atlantic, The New Republic, Foreign Policy, Politico, Daily Beast, Vice Magazine, War on the Rocks, Military Review and African Affairs. He has appeared on CNN's Amanpour, Morning Joe, Fox and Friends, MSNBC, Fox, Sky News, NPR, BBC, WSJ, FT, Economist, Vice/HBO, The Discovery Channel, and American Heroes Channel. As a scholar, he has authored eight book chapters in edited academic volumes, and two monographs on modern war for the U.S. Department of Defense.

McFate holds a BA from Brown University, MPP from the Harvard Kennedy School of Government, and a Ph.D. in international relations from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE). He was also a Fellow at Oxford. McFate lives in Washington, DC.

Short version for those who don't wish to study war, I give you this scenario:

You happen upon a couple in their fifties suffering a felony attack from an antifa or a black lives matter activist. You stopped the stabbing but you end up killing the perpetrator.

The media says you, a white supremacist, attacked and killed innocent activists for your hateful cause. Now everyone who ever knew that kid joins against the good patriots. More and more people radicalize. One Antifa makes an ired and blows up a school bus in a republican area. The media blames it on right wingers. It continues.

When the population is sufficiently weakened anyone could roll in and mop up against us, and most people would thank their new captors, not seeing them as such, but thankful for the restoration of order.

All because we didn't take down their comms/propaganda machine first.

When the mayor (or other elected commie) says u r fired, or tells them not to interrupt or you will be fired or arrested, you don't have a lot of choices. You pray for sanity or move city or state to get sanity. Don't get into the habit of thinking all cops are like Chicago's corrupt force. 89%+ are honest and trying to make a difference. Well we tread a dangerous line.

On the one hand, we're probably well overdue an armed revolt of some sort. Corruption has reached intolerable levels. The political class is basically at the point they can simply disregard the public. The media has switched from "4th Estate" to "Fifth Column", and we just had a general election completely, and obviously stolen while every level of government, local, state, and federal have decided to ignore it. The level of arrogance and disregard for the People they are all supposed to serve is mindblowing.

On the other, any such revolt or civil war will be incredibly destructive to our country, setting back our economy for at least a decade if not more, and will, no matter the outcome, end in widespread death an poverty, even without a single shot fired in anger. The ridiculous Covid response itself has put us on a trajectory towards at least a taste of that as it is.

And no matter what, China wins. And as long as the "bad guys" can escape our grasp, they have no qualms leading us all to those outcomes, as long as their families and themselves remain wealthy and beyond the reach of any laws or consequences.

The only real option that evades all of that, is that the courses still left to our President are followed, he is ultimately re-inaugurated, and his next four years are spent using the full force of law to destroy the corrupt underbelly of Washington itself.

That is the only way to protect our Republic and defeat China. Any other option, including a total patriot uprising, is a win for China.

Come on brother. You cannot be serious. You cannot be so daft (to borrow a phrase from across the pond) to think China won't take that time to assert themselves in Southeast China. Taiwan will be invaded, and a new hegemony will be established among the entire SE Asia/ West Pacific, while we are all busy tossing pitchforks at our government and our military is sitting there (hopefully) being neutral.

There won't be any response to anything China does for years. So it's a win for them. And when we finally get our shit together, regain the Republic and all of that, we will be faced with a new superpower willing to take us on, because the CCP is crazy ideologues. Like North Korea, but with the ability to murder millions of Americans instead of just make cartoons about it.

A quarter of our Pacific submarine fleet would be enough to forestall a Chinese move on Taiwan (that involves more than indiscriminate bombardment). China already has the ability to murder millions (but a tiny fraction of what we can do in response, as has been the case for decades). China feels like it's ready to step out onto the big world stage that they feel is their right. Except they can't do shit on their own and owe their economic existence to us. You overstate China's ability to operate (and even exist as a coherent state) unilaterally.

Because fixing a comment is not something this site has been good at, I will further put this point out.

LA, VA, whatever class boat you were on, our explosive and oft times tendency to rule a battle was not necessarily due to how good we were, but how bad they were. I was on boats in the 80s, 90s, and into the 2000s, and we destroyed them. If you are making the assumption that the new 2010 boats and beyond, and the seawolf inbetween were somehow worse, then that is on you. You guys sucked. we did fine and could beat any boat in the world. Even the quiet korean ones. If you think China somehow is better, you are fucking terrible submariners. Not worthy of the name.

It would. As a former submariner, it would. I served on a 688, and it is a death machine. A total death machine.

But in the event of a revolution happening in hte US, our military would stay neutral, if they followed their orders. They could not intervene. And our Navy would be powerless to stop anything the ChiComs do.

permalink parent save report block reply

– Thrasymachus 2 points 5 hours ago +2 / -0

I figure the Navy would stay neutral with regard to the internal conflict, but not so neutral with regard to defending the United States from any foreign aggressor. But you're right: that may or may not entirely extend to our defensive obligations to Taiwan.

It's still a hell of a gamble for the CCP to make in order to take Taiwan; they must think they can snag it without destroying its economy in the process.

No one considers the problem we'd have once SHTF. We have a bunch of militias in this country and they'll fight united for the most part; upfront. But what comes next? A Power Vacuum and infighting? That's what bothers me, and it would easily be backed by an advisory of ours or China. Consider the fact we're China's current cash cow. They do not want issues with us we owe them too much in debt. I believe their push to own our government is to keep the cash coming. Then we do have the issue of blue helmets no matter their training, they'll be equipped up front. Guess we could consider them resupplies until the drone strikes and gun ships show up. Maybe Russia will see it as a chance to get back over Afghanistan and supply the rebels.

Come to Florida Commander DeSantis would easily lead/run our state post conflict. Our state militia would be badass after we appropriate the goods from Eaglin, Edwards and the one in the Keys. I always joke that you could take one year's budget from Orange County Public Schools and have enough money to buy 10 F35a, a better air force than most countries. He is extremely popular in our state and would be a great leader in a true crisis. The media hates him almost as much as they hate Trump.

In 2017, U.S. agricultural exports to China reached $23.8 billion, over 17 percent of U.S. total agricultural exports. From 2000 to 2017, U.S. agricultural exports to China increased by 700%. Soybeans are China's No. 1 agricultural import from the U.S., with a 52% market. Those numbers have doubled since 2017. Their people depend on our food and the country would go into chaos without it. I agree with everything you said. Better to die by our own hand than at the hands of our enemies. There is no glory in surrender. We must wait til Trump has exhausted all peaceful attempts at a solution. If that time passes without effect then there is no peaceful victory to be had. They want a war, we will give them defeat. They want blood, we will empty thiers onto the soil. There is no going back from where we are. Yesterday is dead and only our decisions today can save tomorrow.

I really do hate putting it as "until Trump has exhausted" et cetera.

It's not really so bleak. Congress has over the the past several hundred years given a president a ridiculous amount of power, and honestly, as long as he follows a certain path he wins without question.

It was always rather difficult to steal an election to this point. They did in 1960, but Nixon was weak, and everyone really loved Kennedy. For some reason.

The problem with this take is that the nation's already being torn down by many of the exact same people we're trying to spare suffering. If you time traveled someone from the 1950's to today, this country would be basically unrecognizable to them. Time travel one of the Founders to today and their head would probably fucking explode. So how do we tell when it's "completely necessary"?

Plus the Covid bailouts are far from the only things our kids will have to deal with, kids right now are already suffering from the trans lunatics we chose to tolerate.

I don't know how you can compare us to Bosnians and attempt to draw conclusions from that. You either believe in American exceptionalism or not. Those fuckers keep prayer mats and point them in the direction of mecca like 8 times a day or some stupid shit like that. While they do that you have Floridians who have evolved fucking gills and kill wild hogs with hunting knives for fun. You really cant compare the two.

Well, it's not about technology slowing, it's about people working fucking jobs to make money to pay bills and have a normal life.

And almost all of that is disrupted when your fucking government is overrun by whoever does the overrunning, even well-meaning patriots. What are you, like 12?

Do you not know how a stable society operates compared to an unstable one? Yes, Virginia, no matter how righteous and necessary, an uprising will mean instability. Not business as usual. Maybe take a few courses in economy and figure out how things actually work before spreading your piehole on the matter.

With that said, I do hope you had some really fantastic pies this Christmas for your piehole. My favorite is a good pecan.

Economies also get interesting in wartime. Like how the great depression was obliterated during WWII.

I've got an ice cream pie recipie and a light chocolate and peanut butter pie mousse concoction you might like.

They're both easy, fast, cheaper than 5 dollars (my cut-off for not getting store-made), and don't require baking. Let me know which one you'd like because - seriously - they're really good!

Infrastructure and trade obviously - but we didn't go 'backwards'. Weapons, transportation, medicine and more advanced. Quite a bit.

Actually, I'd argue about infrastructure because linking industry output to logistics also increased massively in integration.

Well, our wars weren't fought here. The Spanish Civil War set Spain's economy "back" quite a bit, but that said, I object to the phrase "back": what's "foward"? Is "forward" "progressive"? Destruction as economic stimulant is a time-honored fallacy (and arguably the economic fallacy), but on the other hand, living in a techno-noir dystopian authoritarian hellhole is not worth the economic "progress" when said progress amounts to Fancy Gadgets Programmed By Faggots And Made By Asian Slaves.

Fifty years of economic data shows indisputably how colossal, almost inconceivably increases in productive efficiencies (relative to the rest of human history) have been captured exclusively by an exclusive echelon of capital owners who leverage their (leveraged) leverage to vacuum up every industry into mega conglomerates (which is a fancy way to say wages and living standards have stagnated). There's less to be concerned about getting "set back" than you might think.

They aren't called rain barrels now. They are called "rain water collection tanks". They are made of plastic, there is no rusting, no cholera. They are inherently disease free, and usually used to feed chickens or water plants.

In Joe's time it was "mah plantation is too far from a river so I setup rivers everywhere and "Cornpop" was actually General Cornwallis, and the "pool" was the Atlantic, and the "chain" was the French Navy.

They broke him during the Disney trilogy. He got the message, presumably from all sides, from everyone in the industry: put up a fight about the deliberate humiliation of your character and the agenda-driven, explicit anti-white message, and you'll be exiled from Hollywood. For a moment, he almost looked ready to fight. But he took the easy path. From there, jumping on the narrative bandwagon is just part of the price of staying in the club. Shame!

David Cross is just another sad comedian that would get obliterated by today's cancel culture and SJW mobs if he was still relevant, so hides behind his far left liberal lunacy like a shield. His character in Scary Movie 2 would get him canceled for being "ableist" and making fun of handicapped people today. You could go through any episode of his HBO sketch show and he'd probably get canceled for doing something "problematic" or offensive by today's standards. What a pussy.

This is David Cross. He started his own weight loss program called Crossfit. Apparently it involves getting cross and throwing fits. By just throwing a 10 minute fit 3 times a day you can change your life.

I would argue even if they accept there was fraud and seat Trump, war is still going to have to happen unless there are some mass arrests of the criminals pushing us to the brink of war.

These celebrities that spend all their time on Twitter are so funny, they actually think they're bad assess. Because they say all this extreme liberal shit and their buddies are like, "fuck yeah, dude!" I could see that really confusing someone's mind. So I'll just throw some clarity out there. DAVID CROSS: you are the world's biggest pussy. You want blood? No problem. We can make sure it's rolling all down your face and into your own mouth. David Cross. You are nothing. No one cares. Mr. Show was all about Odenkirk anyway, an actual genius. Not a pussy propped up on a popsicle stick like you.

These people are calling for a civil war because they think the military is going to be on their side. The military will probably be on no one's side, the deserters will go to whichever side they want to. But these leftists have a truly rude awakening if they think they are going to wield the military against the right.

Hey now method acting is an art. Someone needs to play the soy soaked panty wearing cuck in a comedy series. On that note there will be no blood for him unless it's his own and this is why that's not necessary:

1. Probability of HIV from a) needle sharing b) butt sex with random hobos in West Hollywood.
2. Bullets too expensive so get the rope.
3. Might need to sharpen my knife afterwards. Ropes don't need sharpening. Get the rope.
4. His "Funke" character from arrested development is literally him in real life. Get boating rope from Walmart. It's cheaper.
5. Gallows take more effort than this guy is worth so just use someone's porch that is 3 feet off the ground.
6. Blood borne contact high from: a) adrenochrome. b) heroine c) tranny hormone blockers (recreational use in his case).

Any way, rope will always be the most efficient solution for this type of social and political moron. It is unfortunate that the right does not believe in Re-education camps since this is what he needs. A $4 is too much to spare. As the bean counters always remind us: for just the cost of a latte... bitch please I make them at home for 24 cents.
